

الأعمال العظيمة مصنوعة من أجزاء صغيرة
Great works are made of small pieces

Mosaic : Our Name

Mosaic, or Mosaico, is one of the authentic arts where talent, taste, skill, and experience come together to create amazing works that captivate the audience, meet both functional and aesthetic aspects, and remain a legacy and example for future generations.

Piece by piece, and detail by detail, the art of mosaic employs knowledge drawn from various creative and professional fields, integrating and harmonizing them to achieve the final work presented before the eyes.

Hence the name "Mosaic," reflecting the diversity of arts and fields involved in the filmmaking and artistic production process, requiring precision, focus, and attention to the smallest details.

This is where Mosaic's motto comes from: "Great works are made of small pieces!"

Mosaic : Our Story

After five years of dedicated work as a lead programmer at one of the major national banks, Jordanian director and producer, Heba Nimer Bourini, left her lucrative job and secure career path in pursuit of her passion for cinema and digital media. She ventured into the world of filmmaking, climbing the ladder step by step, eventually achieving several long documentaries that received critical acclaim and a warm reception from critics and the public. She won first place at the Arab level in the directing category at the Radio and Television Festival in Tunisia for the program "Meshwar," produced for Jordanian Television. She founded her own company for artistic and media production called "Mosaic".

Mosaic was established in 2013 to serve as an institutional framework and legal entity, allowing Heba Bourini to take her work to the next level and leverage her extensive experience and wide network of local and Arab relationships to enrich the Jordanian and Arab markets with a diverse range of artistic and media production services that meet the expectations of service recipients from all sectors.

Mosaic : Our Team

The film and media production sector is one of the most dynamic and interactive sectors, especially with the rapid technological advancements and continuous changes in the communication environment and market needs.

To keep up with this evolving and fluctuating nature of the filmmaking and media industry, Mosaic relies on a wide network of part-time workers and freelancers, each serving as an "expert" in their field.

In addition to this, there are various professional service providers covering different supporting and logistical aspects of the work.

This business model allows Mosaic to put together the right team for each project or task, ensuring efficiency and maximum added value for service recipients in line with the latest service, quality, and performance standards prevailing in the market.
